

A botanical illustration from a manuscript, showing a plant with a thick, reddish-brown, segmented root system. The plant has several green stems with lobed, leaf-like structures. Small blue flowers with yellow centers are attached to the stems and the root system. The background is light blue with faint text at the top.