

running through hallways, and a ring from the Potter vaults sitting on a pale, thin-fingered hand.

He blushed, glad the darkness in the catacombs hid his embarrassment from Remus. Maybe he was getting a little ahead of himself there.

But it was a nice dream.